Running for a seat on the board and voting in EnergyUnited elections is a distinctive benefit of being a cooperative member. Directors are democratically elected by the EnergyUnited membership and are compensated for their service. The cooperative has three directors from each of its three board districts. Directors serve three-year terms.

The Nominations Committee composed of members will verify nominees' qualifications. After petition signatures and nominees qualifications are verified, EnergyUnited will announce the newly elected directors at its Annual Meeting of Members on September 20, 2018.
