ENERGYUNITED OFFICIAL NAMED PRESIDENT OF NORTH CAROLINA ASSOCIATION OF ELECTRIC COOPERATIVES BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Statesville, N.C., April 30, 2019 – Dr. Max Walser, chairman of EnergyUnited’s board of directors, was recently named president of the board of directors for the North Carolina Association of Electric Cooperatives (NCAEC).

Dr. Walser, who has served on EnergyUnited’s board of directors for 43 years, was elected to his one-year NCAEC term during the association’s annual meeting in Raleigh earlier this month.

NCAEC is a statewide association that has worked since 1943 to promote training, safety, education and legislative advocacy on behalf of electric cooperative members and the public. NCAEC programs serve the needs of its 26 member cooperatives, which are member-owned, not-for-profit and overseen by a board of directors elected by their memberships.

Driven by service and inspired by innovation, North Carolina's electric cooperatives, including EnergyUnited, are building a brighter energy future for 2.5 million North Carolinians. Beyond providing electricity, the cooperatives strive to invest in their communities and deliver new energy solutions to improve quality of life for co-op members in 93 of North Carolina's 100 counties.

About EnergyUnited: EnergyUnited EMC is the largest electric cooperative in North Carolina serving nearly 108,000 consumer-members through 130,000 metering points. Headquartered in Statesville, EnergyUnited provides electric service in portions of nineteen counties in west central North Carolina which include Alexander, Cabarrus, Caldwell, Catawba, Davidson, Davie, Forsyth, Gaston, Guilford, Iredell, Lincoln, Mecklenburg, Montgomery, Randolph, Rockingham, Rowan, Stokes, Wilkes and Yadkin. EnergyUnited Propane provides products and services to approximately 24,000 residential, commercial and industrial customers in 74 counties across North and South Carolina.
